FAME – Food·Art·Music·Entertainment is now open at Caesars Entertainment's, The LINQ, and has introduced a new concept blending a high-energy Chinatown Food Market serving authentic street fare combined with live entertainment.

Fame Interior

The Market recreates a culinary bazaar, combining the great street foods of Japan, Taiwan, Thailand, Korea, China and Vietnam on a menu serving dim sum, stir-fry, ramen and barbecue. Putting a twist on the popular Boba drink, a Boba bar offers several flavors made with fresh fruit, including watermelon, lychee, mango, taro and strawberry. A vast selection of microbrews from an array of Asian countries are available on tap. A stationary "food truck" offers Japanese fusion burgers with the first featured food truck being the wildly popular local Las Vegas favorite, Fukuburger.

Live entertainment, such as tiger and dragon dances and Taiko drum performances, along with Gangnam-style beats to keep the market festive. A retail area offers novelty items inspired by Asian culture, such as miniature drums and other souvenirs.

The Asian market seats up to 200 guests inside, with seating for 50 or more on the outdoor patio. The Asian market is open daily from 11 a.m. until late.
